DEFENDANT, TOWN MOTORS OF EXTON, INC.'S
OBJECTIONS TO PLAINTIFF'S ELEVENTH SET OF DISCLOSURES
AND SUPPLEMENTAL MEMORANDUM IN SUPPORT OF ITS PENDING
MOTION IN LIMINE TO PRECLUDE OR LIMIT TESTIMONY OF ONE OF PLAINTIFF'S MEDICAL EXPERTS, PIERRE LeROY, M.D.

On August 27, 2003, plaintiff filed her Eleventh Set of Disclosures. See plaintiff's Eleventh Set of Disclosures, with accompanying correspondence of Pierre L. LeRoy, M.D. dated August 26, 2003, copies of which are appended hereto and identified collectively as Exhibit "A."

Dr. LeRoy is one of plaintiff's medical experts and is expected to testify at trial beginning September 22, 2003. Dr. LeRoy has authored a number of reports as follows: March 21, 2001, June 10, 2003 (two separate reports) and July 1, 2003.

Town Motors has sought to preclude or at least limit the testimony of Dr. LeRoy as per its Omnibus Motion in Limine filed on August 22, 2003. In addition to the reasons stated therein, and without limitation thereto, Town Motors also objects to plaintiff's Eleventh Set of Disclosures and moves to preclude the testimony of Pierre L. LeRoy, M.D. for the following reasons.

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has held that "no matter how skilled or experienced the witness may be, he will not be permitted to guess or to state a judgment based on mere conjecture." Collins v. Hand, 246 A.2d 398, 404 (Pa. 1968). The Pennsylvania Superior Court has reviewed the degree of medical certainty necessary to prove causation and has explained:

When a party must prove causation through expert testimony the expert must testify with "reasonable certainty" that "in his professional opinion, the result in question did come from the cause alleged."

An expert fails this standard of certainty if he testifies "that the alleged cause "possibly", or "could have" led to the result, that it "could very properly account" for the result, or even that it was "very highly probable" that it caused the result.

The issue is not merely one of semantics. There is a logical reason for the rule. The opinion of an expert is evidence.

If the fact finder chooses to believe it, he can find as fact what the expert gave as an opinion. For a fact finder to award damages for a particular condition to a plaintiff it must find as a fact that the condition was legally caused by the defendant's conduct.

Cohen v. Albert Einstein Medical Center, 592 A.2d 720, 723-724 (Pa. Super. 1991).

Under Pennsylvania law, then, an expert is required to opine about his conclusions and opinions to a reasonable degree of "certainty" as per that expert's profession. See Kovach v Central Trucking, Inc., 808 A.2d 958 (Pa. Super. 2002) (reasonable "medical certainty").

To the extent Dr. Leroy has expressed opinions in his reports, he has stated these opinions "with reasonable medical probability" (emphasis added). In his correspondence of August 26, 2003, Dr. Leroy proposes to change the standard of his opinion to "reasonable medical certainty" (emphasis added).

The proposed change in the standard stated by Dr. LeRoy is more than mere semantics. See Kovach, Id. at citing Cohen v Albert Einstein Medical Center, 592 A.2d 720, 723-24 (Pa. Super.

1991). It is a material change in the standard for establishing the basis of an expert opinion under Pennsylvania law.

An expert proposing to state an opinion with "reasonable probability" would not be permitted to testify to such conclusions and opinions under Pennsylvania law. See Cohen v Albert Einstein Medical Center, 592 A.2d 720, 723-24 (Pa. Super. 1991).

With respect to medical opinions, therefore, Pennsylvania law requires that the proposed opinions be stated with reasonable "medical certainty." In his reports of March 21, 2001, June 10, 2003 and July 1, 2003, Dr. LeRoy did not state any opinions with reasonable medical certainty as required by Pennsylvania law.

Town Motors objects to plaintiff's Eleventh Set of Disclosures to Dr. Leroy's addendum of August 26, 2003, and, in addition to the other reasons stated in its motion in limine filed on August 22, 2003, further moves to preclude the testimony of Dr. LeRoy for his failure to state his opinions with the requisite degree of medical certainty under Pennsylvania law.

Respectfully submitted,

CONNOR WEBER & OBERLIES
